CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Complex Litigation Division

BY FAX

22 Plaintiff for this Complaint brought under California law against California Defendants
23 for California residents for treble damages and injunctive and declaratory relief against Netflix,
24 Inc. ("Netflix") and Walmart.com USA, LLC ("Walmart.com") (hereinafter collectively,
25 "Defendants"):

26 FACTS

27 1. On or about May 19, 2005, Netflix and Walmart.com (a wholly owned subsidiary 28 of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.) agreed to divide the markets for the sales and online rentals of DVDs

1 in the United States ("Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement"), with the specific
2 purpose and intended effect of monopolizing and otherwise unreasonably restraining trade in the
3 online DVD rental market.

4 2. Prior to entering into the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement,
5 Netflix and Walmart.com were essentially the only direct competitors in the online DVD rental
6 business, and both were also competitors in directly selling DVDs to consumers.

7 3. By May 2005, Netflix and Walmart.com (a wholly owned subsidiary of Wal-Mart
8 Stores, Inc.) entered into an agreement by which Walmart.com would cease competing with 9 Netflix in the online DVD rental business, and Netflix would promote the sales of new DVDs by 10 Walmart.com online (and Wal-Mart Stores). In exchange, Netflix agreed to cease any sale of 11 new DVDs.

12 4. Defendants' conspiracy enabled Netflix to increase its overpricing (and profits) by 13 establishing higher subscription rates for DVD rentals. As a result of this contract, as well as 14 Netflix's unlawfully and illegally obtained and maintained market and monopoly power, Netflix
15 subsequently did in fact overcharge Plaintiff and Class members for subscription fees.

16 5. Under the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement, Netflix and 17 Walmart.com agreed that they would restrain trade and eliminate competition. Walmart.com
18 agreed that it would stop competing with Netflix in the online rental market. Netflix agreed that 19 it would not sell new DVDs, but instead would promote the DVD sales of Walmart.com (and 20 Wal-Mart Stores).

21 6. In promoting the sale of DVDs by Walmart.com (and Wal-Mart Stores), Netflix
22 provided "consideration" for the agreement by Wal-Mart Stores and Walmart.com, so that 23 Walmart.com would exit the online DVD rental market and simultaneously confirmed to 24 Walmart.com (and Wal-Mart Stores) that Netflix would not enter the market to sell new DVDs,
25 as Netflix was well-positioned and otherwise had the unilateral economic incentive to do.

26 7. Since entering into the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement, neither
27 Wal-Mart Stores nor Walmart.com has rented DVDs online and Netflix has not sold new DVDs
28 online to customers. The Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement served to entrench

1 and enhance Defendants' respective dominant positions in this market and otherwise cause harm
2 to competition, including enabling Netflix to charge higher subscription rates for online DVD
3 rentals than it would have had they not entered into the agreement.

4 8. Online DVD "rentals" are a distinct and separate market from DVD "sales." The 5 price of a new DVD depends heavily on how popular it is, including whether it is a new release
6 or how successful the title originally was at the box office or on television. By contrast, online
7 DVD renters are generally charged based on a monthly or yearly subscription fee.

8 9. Plaintiff and all other similarly situated consumers in fact paid higher subscription
9 prices to Netflix.

10 10. This case is brought as a Class Action filed on behalf of all consumers in 11 California who, during the period May 19, 2005 to the present, paid a subscription fee to rent
12 DVDs from Netflix.

13 PLAINTIFF

14 11. JIM CORNETT is an individual consumer who resides in San Francisco, 15 California. During the Class Period, Plaintiff Cornett directly subscribed to Netflix for his 16 personal, non-commercial use. Plaintiff Cornett is a member of the proposed Class and has been 17 injured by Defendants' conduct.

18 DEFENDANTS

19 12. Defendant Netflix is a corporation headquartered at 100 Winchester Circle, Los 20 Gatos, California, 95032. Through its website, www.netflix.com, Netflix rents DVDs directly to 21 consumers nationwide by charging monthly subscription fees, which allows customers to rent
22 DVDs pursuant to various subscription plans. Netflix has possessed a market share of no less
23 than 75% of the online DVD rental market in the United States at all times during the Class
24 Period.

25 13. Defendant Walmart.com is a wholly owned subsidiary of Wal-Mart Stores.
26 Walmart.com is a Delaware company with its headquarters and operations at 7000 Marina
27 Boulevard, Brisbane, California 94005. It is the online component of Wal-Mart Stores' retail
28 empire that is the leading seller of new DVDs in the United States. Prior to the conspiracy

1 alleged herein, Walmart.com was also a major competitor of Netflix in the online DVD rental
2 market through the "Walmart DVD Rentals" service. Through the website, www.walmart.com,
3 Defendant Walmart.com sells DVDs directly to consumers nationwide.

4 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5 14. This Complaint is filed pursuant to California Business and Professions Code
6 sections 16720, et seq., commonly known as the Cartwright Act. Under California Business and 7 Professions Code section 16750(a), Plaintiff seek to recover treble the damages Plaintiff and the 8 members of the Class have sustained due to Defendants' illegal activities.

9 15. Venue is proper in Santa Clara County under California Business and Professions
10 Code section 16750(a), and California Code of Civil Procedure section 395.5. Defendant
11 Netflix's principal place of business is in Santa Clara County.

12 16. The amount in controversy for the individual Plaintiff and for each Class member
13 is less than $75,000 per Class member.

14 17. No portion of this Complaint is brought pursuant to federal law.

15 18. All the members of the proposed Class are residents of the State of California.

16 CLASS ALLEGATIONS

17 19. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of himself and the members of the Class,
18 defined as comprising:

19 All residents of California who paid a "subscription fee" to Netflix
20 to rent DVDs online after May 19, 2005 up to the present.

21 20. The Class numbers in the thousands. The exact number and identities of the 22 members are known by Defendants. Excluded from the Class are government entities,
23 Defendants, their co-conspirators and their representatives, parents, subsidiaries, and affiliates.

24 21. The Class is so numerous and geographically dispersed that joinder of all 25 members is impracticable.

26 22. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class and the members
27 thereof. These common questions relate to the existence of the conspiracy alleged, and to the 28 type and common pattern of injuries sustained as a result thereof. The questions include, but are

1 not limited to:

- 2 (a) Whether Defendants engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy to
- 3 allocate markets;
- 4 (b) Whether Defendants unreasonably restrained trade in the online DVD
- 5 rental market;
- 6 (c) Whether Defendants had the specific intent for Netflix to monopolize the
- 7 online DVD rental market;
- 8 (d) The nature and character of the acts performed by Defendants in
- 9 furtherance of the alleged contract, combination, and conspiracy;
- 10 (e) Whether the alleged contract, combination, and conspiracy violated
- 11 California law;
- 12 (f) The anticompetitive effects of Defendants' violations of the law;
- 13 (g) Whether Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally
- 14 applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief
- 15 or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Class as a whole;
- 16 and
- 17 (h) Whether the conduct of Defendants, as alleged in this Complaint, caused
- 18 Netflix subscription fees to be higher than they otherwise would have been
- 19 and thereby caused injury to the business and property of Plaintiff and
- 20 other members of the Class.

21 23. The questions of law and fact common to the members of the Class predominate
22 over any questions affecting only individual members, including the legal and factual issues
23 relating to liability and damages.

24 24. Plaintiff is a member of the Class. Their claims are typical of the claims of other 25 members of the Class, and they will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of 26 the Class. Their interests are aligned with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other members of 27 the Class.

28 25. Plaintiff is represented by Hersh & Hersh, a Professional Corporation, a law firm experienced with class action antitrust litigation and familiar with the Rules of this Court.

26 26. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient
27 adjudication of this controversy. Class treatment will permit the adjudication of relatively small 28 claims by members of the Class who otherwise could not afford to litigate antitrust claims such as are asserted in this Complaint. This class action presents no difficulties of management that would preclude its maintenance as a class action.
